About Adrian Pacini

Adrian Pacini is an award-winning filmmaker, actor and digital content creator. Adrian most recently earned top filmmaking honors at the 2017 International Thespian Festival for his acclaimed short film Beyond, which was the Official Selection of the festival. The film had previously been recognized as an Official Selection at the 2016 Texas state festival.

Adrian is also an accomplished content creator in digital video and film, and has helped to create branded video and digital content with companies like Esquire magazine, and entertainment content for his own production channel, OMGpacini. This has provided Adrian the opportunity to work with leading personalities like Michael Strahan, Rita Wilson and Julianna Margulies.

In addition to his work behind the camera, Adrian is a performer on stage and screen. He is an alumnus of Houston's Theatre Under the Stars (TUTS) programs and attended Humphreys School of Musical Theatre. He was recently named Best Supporting Actor at the 2017 Jerry Baber Awards for his work in Moliere's The Miser. Adrian's work has been featured in such media as NBC, FOX, the Houston Chronicle, and many others. He is currently in his sophomore year at Sugar Land's Clements High School.
